

Wired For Reading

An Evidence Based Linguistic Program for Reading, Spelling and Vocabulary

Developed by Laura Rogan, M. A., M.Ed.

Wired For Reading's multi-sensory, systematic approach has a strong record of success for struggling readers both in and out of the regular classroom. At the same time, the program's engaging exploration of the architecture of English benefits all learners.

Wired For Reading Advanced Course

Are you ready to build from and move beyond phonological awareness and basic phonics? Come and learn the secrets of spelling-bee champions and how to apply them in your teaching in powerful, engaging ways. Delve into English's treasure trove of words and word parts adopted from Latin and Greek based languages, each with its own spelling traditions and choices. Professional development can be entertaining and informative.

Designed for classroom teachers, special education teachers, tutors, paraprofessionals, instructional coaches, and parents working with children reading at a third grade or higher reading level.

- Discover how the history of the English language affects and predicts spelling patterns.
- Demystify reading research terminology and reading-related brain functioning.
- Glean the meaning of Latin and Greek prefixes, roots, and suffixes to aid reading, spelling, and vocabulary.
- Discover how adapted American Sign Language wakes up the brain and makes word meanings stick like glue.
- Create suffix charts to track the overlapping meanings and spellings of common Latin suffixes.
- Learn games and activities to practice, apply, & automate skills, and foster a lasting curiosity about words.
- Hold students accountable to transfer knowledge so that they become proficient, comfortable readers and writers.

I highly recommend Wired for Reading's Advanced Course. Laura Rogan's approach is fun and engaging and is going to help my students learn how to decode words from the Latin and Greek level, while unlocking their meanings."

-Kerri McCarthy, Reading Specialist

Laura Rogan is a true professor of linguistics and her energetic teaching style not only captivates students, professional educators, and parents, but also transfers to their students."

-Wendy Shibuya, Para Educator

Laura's keen teaching skills and fun and encouraging personality have enabled me to make repetition fun and engaging, too. By learning the American Sign for the meaning of prefixes and roots, my daughter is able to see and understand these patterns in longer words, instead of guessing at them. -Melissa Stelling, Mom

Seattle Winter Advanced: November 3rd- 5th, 2011

(Thursday/Friday 4:30-7:45 & Saturday 8:15-4:30) at Evergreen School in Seattle.

Seattle Spring Advanced: May 2012 (Thursday/Friday 4:30-7:45 & Saturday 8:15-4:40)

Dates and location TBA.

Tuition: $240 and includes all materials if paid by deadline.

Fourteen clock hours or one credit are also available through Seattle University.

Grounded.
Current.
Connected.

Visit WiredforReading.com for more information & to register.